REGISTRAR ADVISES TEACHERS NOT TO BE VICTIMS

The Registrar of Osun State University, J. O. Faniran, Phd has advised primary and secondary school teachers in the State not to fall into the hands of some miscreants and bad elements in the society, who are going around collecting illegal money from innocent teachers for the purpose of helping them to pass the forthcoming promotion examinations. The statement said: ‘Information reaching Osun State University indicates that miscreants and bad elements in the society are going round primary and secondary schools in the State, deceiving innocent teachers by selling questions, organising tutorials and collecting money under the pretext of helping them to pass the forthcoming promotion examinations being organised for teachers in the State. The statement then enjoined all Principals, Headmasters and law abiding teachers to expose such miscreants to the police and desist from being victims.
