P. SUMMARY OF CONTRIBUTION TO KNOWLEDGE

My research work investigated psycho-demographic predictors of unethical aggressive behaviour and the moderating role of emotional intelligence among non-commissioned Nigeria police officers and Men. The research work contributed to a deep understanding of unethical aggressive behaviours expressed verbally, non-verbal or physically. Moreover, the study add more value understanding of psychological cum demographic factors associated with unethical aggressive behaviour of police officers and men. Additionally, the study unveil the police personality factors associated with unethical behaviour. Contributed to comprehensive understanding of emotional intelligence, and explore the potential role of the emotional intelligence in ameliorating the link between psychological factors and unethical aggressive behaviour. The study added value to knowledge suggesting openness personality and other psycho-demographic factors that contributed to unethical aggressive behaviour among police. Also asserted that emotional intelligent ability is a potential ingredient that can be utilized to ameliorate unethical aggressive behaviour among Nigeria Police Officers and Men. Therefore, personality, unethical behavioural assessments, as well as emotional intelligence training are recommended in police recruitment exercise in Nigeria.
