P. SUMMARY OF CONTRIBUTION TO KNOWLEGDE:

I single-handedly established the department of Ophthalmology, College of Health Sciences, Lautech. Since inception, many developments have taken place. The first 2 sets of Medical students were trained by me and they are making waves in their different places in the world.

Many books and journal articles have been published which will continue to contribute to knowledge in various aspects of Ophthalmology care. The book on red eyes and glaucoma were for students, general Practitioners and the general populace. They were down to earth for easy understanding for the non-medical people. So also was the book on my Inaugural lecture on sleep in the blind. More recently, the book on Faculty lecture was directed at the populace and medical practitioners.

The invention on congenital ectropion has provided easy management of this condition instead of the previous surgical interventions.

Each of the listed publications above have contributed immensely to knowledge in eye care.
